ADAH R. BRUNSON IS AWARDED $125

For Damage Wrought To Her Property On Wall Street By Presence Of Interurban Tracks.

At five o'clock Wednesday afternoon the circuit court jury trying Adah R. Brunson's appeal from the award of the commissioners in the interurban condemnation proceedings, returned a sealed verdict. It was opened this morning and allows the plaintiff $125 for damages to her property on Wall Street.

This is $25 less than the commission allowed and puts the cost on the plaintiff.

On application of the defendant the case of John Plover vs. the Interurban Co. was continued.

The Mexican riot, President Diaz of Mexico and revolutionists who oppose the government. Ricardo Flores Magon, president of the Mexican Liberal party and a refugee in the United States. Francisco Madero, member of one of the richest and most famous families in Mexico and leader in the present revolt against the government. Madero was at one time imprisoned because of his anti-government opinions, charged with "insulting the nation."

ARMY AND NAVY TO MEET ON GRIDIRON IN LAST BIG GAME

West Point Eleven Is Slightly Favorite in the Contest at Philadelphia Tomorrow.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 25.—The football season for 1910 will close tomorrow when the rival teams from the United States Military and Naval Academies will meet in their annual gridiron battle on Franklin Field, in this city. From a social standpoint the game eclipses all others, as it attracts a most representative gathering of society leaders, army and navy officers, diplomats, and others prominent in all walks of life. The battalion of cadets in each academy will attend the game.

Both teams arrived in the city today, in prime condition and eager for the fray. The eleven appear to be evenly matched, although it is possible that the West Point boys will rule slight favorites before the whistle blows for the opening of hostilities. Both teams have made excellent records during the season. The midshipmen record shows the better performance as figures go, but on the other hand the West Point team has met more formidable opponents than the midshipmen and in every game has made an excellent showing.

At the beginning of the season it was stated that the material at the Naval Academy was the strongest for years, but in the showing of the midshipmen in their early games did not bear out this prediction, and many football writers were inclined to believe that Annapolis was going to have a poor team this season, and would be outclassed by the Army team. But the work of the midshipmen showed a distinct improvement with every game and the victories over Lehigh and the Carlisle Indians resulted in a big boom in the Annapolis stock. The midshipmen defeated Lehigh by a score of 30 to 0, while the West Point score in the game with Lehigh was 28 to 0. The strength of the army team, however, was demonstrated beyond question in the victory over Yale and the excellent showing made against the formidable Harvard eleven.

The betting on the game appears to be remarkably light, the Army demanding slight odds, and the Navy supporters holding that the real strength of the rival combinations merits even money. In view of the conflicting opinions, very little money has been put up so far, although some lively betting is expected tomorrow morning with the arrival of the thousands of visitors from New York, Washington and other points.

The game-tomorrow will be the fifteenth contest in which the West Point and Annapolis eleven have engaged. The Army has won seven and the Navy six. In 1905 a tie game was played.

The first game between the two Government institutions was played at West Point on the Saturday after Thanksgiving, 1890. In that game the winners of the black and gray received a severe drubbing at the hands of the Navy by the use of the famous "flying wedge." The score was 21 to 0.

The return game was played on the Navy's grounds on November 30 of the following year, and resulted in the Army retrieving its former defeat by a score of 32 to 16. For the third game of the series the Navy again traveled to the Hudson, and although the Army team outweighed them seven pounds to the man, the contest resulted in a 12 to 4 victory for the sailor boys.

The game in 1892 was played at Annapolis and resulted in another victory for the Navy by a score of 6 to 4. The games were then discontinued for six years. When they were resumed in 1899 it was on the neutral field of the University of Pennsylvania. The Army won, 17 to 6.

In 1900 the Navy was again the victor, the final score being Navy 11, Army 7. The following year the Army repeated the victory, winning by a score of 11 to 5. At the contest of 1902 the first of the Army's big scores was piled up, the final figures being Army 22, Navy 8. One year later the midshipmen were again put into mourning, when the game resulted in a victory for the Army to the tune of 40 to 5.

With a determination to do or die, the Navy came to Philadelphia in 1904, and by an almost superhuman effort kept the figures down to Army 11, Navy 0. The next year the game resulted in a tie. In 1906 the Navy scored its first victory in six years, winning by 10 to 0. The next year the Navy won another victory, this time by a score of 6 to 4. Last year the game between the two institutions was called off because of the fatal injury to Cadet Byrno of the West Point team in the game with Harvard.

NAVAL MUTINEERS SURRENDER TODAY

PEACE RESTORED WHEN DEMANDS OF SAILORS ARE CONCEDED.

CONGRESS VOTES AMNESTY

Both Houses of the Brazil Congress Met in Special Session and Concurred in Granting Amnesty.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Rio Janeiro, Nov. 25.—The naval mutineers surrendered today, congress voting them amnesty and granting the demands of the mutineers.

The capital had slept last night with the guns of its own navy turned upon it. Toward one o'clock, the morning the mutinous scout boat, Desodoro, fired upon the naval arsenal. The commanding did not last long and little damage was done. The Desodoro, accompanied by the battleship Minas Geraes, then put to sea.

The local garrisons and loyal troops did not respond, although, according to this morning's papers, their officers had received similar orders as to their duty in certain contingencies.

The morning broke with the mutinous craft still outside the harbor and it did not return to port until some hours later.

Congress met in extraordinary session this morning. The deputies first concurred with the senate in granting amnesty to the mutineers. Both houses then passed resolutions, conceding the demands of the sailors.

As soon as the action of congress became known the mutinous crew surrendered and the revolt was at an end, and the city resumed its normal activities.

SINNISSEPI CLUB'S THANKSGIVING BALL A MEMORABLE EVENT

Society Folk in New and Dazzling Costumes Danced Till Three This Morning to Krell's Superb Music. Assembly hall with its late-autumn canopy of orange and green was the scene of the most brilliant of the season of brilliant balls that have been given under Sinissippi Golf club auspices. No tedium, flood-light bath of lilac and scarlet were readily needed to heighten the effects. Without extra coloring the whole picture was a dream-tantray of fair women beautifully arrayed. There was just one rude return to reality and that was a hard-dance which severely tested every hobble and near-hobble. More visiting guests were present, perhaps, than ever before. W. H. Krell and his Chicago orchestra fairly outdid themselves, playing the best of the old music and selections from the new scores—Choccolato Soldier, "Alma Wo Wohnt Du?"—with a verve and swing which always threatened to clear the spectators' gallery. Refreshments were faultlessly served in the north alcove throughout the evening.

The decorations were "inherited" from the trainmen's ball of the preceding night and consisted of a network of foliage streamers radiating from huge inverted bowls and tassels which hung in rings from the central area of the ceiling, and palms which banked the orchestra stand. Festivities began shortly after eight o'clock and the dancers regretfully took their departure at three this morning. The Sinissippi house committee which had charge of the arrangements deserved congratulations and received them. It has been one of the best line committees that ever served and consisted of Miss Louise Morrill, chairman, Mrs. H. H. Bliss, Mrs. E. H. Peterson, A. P. Buchanan, and Howard Black. Mr. Krell's associates in concert, pitch: C. H. Wagner, violin; J. Kozak, cornet; B. Kraus, clarinet; P. Apel, drums; J. Churan, trombone; and C. Wilken, bass.

Included among the out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. David Jeffers, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jeffers, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dearborn, Mr. and Mrs. Ward Williams, Miss Louise Williams, and Victor Whitton, all of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Germon of Madison who are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Jackman; Miss Mabel Walker of Racine; Miss Eleanor Parker of Beloit; Anson Mayhew of Milwaukee, who with his sons, is visiting at the home of R. M. Bostwick; Charles Reynolds of Rockford; Thos. Buell of Milwaukee, Robert Duncan of Madison; Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Buell, the Misses Nora and Paula Buell and Mrs. Martha Kell of Burlington, all of whom are guests of Dr. and Mrs. Brown at the Blind Institute; Miss Leonore Melnhardt and Roy McCann of Burlington; and the following members of the Misses Maria and Clara Hodgett's Delta Gamma house-party—Miss Linet Brown of Laverne, Minn.; Miss Genevieve Drentzer of Sturgeon Bay; Miss Frances Wheeler of Rochester, N. Y.; Miss Helen Lukos of Sioux City, Ia.; George Pearson of Evanston, Earl Coleman of Grand Rapids, Mich.; Arthur McLeod of San Diego, Cal.; and Robert Pearson of Evansville; and Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Smith of Rockford.

OBITUARY

Mrs. August Lutz.
Mrs. August Lutz, an old resident of the city, died suddenly Thanksgiving morning at her home on South Center avenue at 3:15 o'clock. She had been confined to her bed for two days. The deceased was sixty-six years of age and was born June 2, 1844 in Germany. She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, August Lutz; three sons, Fred, John and Albert Lutz; one sister, and three brothers. The funeral will be held at 1:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon from the home on South Center avenue and at two o'clock from St. John's German Lutheran church. Burial will be made in Oak Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Mary L. Hyde.
The funeral of Mrs. Mary L. Hyde, who died at two o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, was held from the late residence at 602 West Bluff street at two o'clock this afternoon. The services were conducted by the Rev. T. D. Williams. A large circle of friends and members of the family attended the services and there were many beautiful floral offerings. The remains were interred in Oak Hill cemetery.

The deceased was an old resident of Janesville, having lived here nearly half a century. She was born in Detroit, Mich., Oct. 11, 1823, and was married to Henry W. Granger, Aug. 7, 1847. Four children were born to them, none of whom are now living; two of them, Miss Ida Olivia Granger and the late Mrs. Fanny L. Bennett. Mrs. Granger moved to Clermont, Ind., after her husband's death and was there married to Henry Hyde, March 27, 1859. One daughter by this marriage, Mrs. Frank H. Porter of this city, survives her. She also leaves two grandchildren, Mrs. Frank W. Froeborn of this city, and Mrs. Lyle Olson of Milwaukee, and a brother residing in Potosky, Mich. Mrs. Hyde was a member of the Cargill Memorial Methodist church.

Painless Dentistry

My Painless work is reaching out tremendously among the neighboring cities.

Just for illustration, on last Saturday I had patients from Afton, Evansville, Portville and two from Clinton, one from Minnesota, besides several from 4 to 8 miles on either side of town.

Today I had one from Montana who waited till on a visit here before having her dental work done.

I also extracted two teeth for a timid patient just now who—like all the rest—said, "Dr. Richards, you never hurt a bit."

Try me for your own work.

Dainty Laces

Carefully Cleaned

Ordinarily, people fear to send their soiled laces to cleaners. So rare and beautiful laces remain unused and unenjoyed. One can hardly blame them for not wanting to send them to some cleaner.

We base these facts on what our customers have told us. So we set to work to perfect a method to skillfully clean lace. And we succeeded. We ask you to find out for yourself by giving us a trial order.

J. L. LEWIS MAN OF EXCELLENT REPUTE

Statements Regarding His Flock of Turkeys Verified and Action Against Him Dismissed.

J. L. Lewis' statement to the court regarding the combination of circumstances which resulted in his arrest at his farm in Green county on the charge of stealing 21 turkeys from Charles Schultz, who resides in the town of Magnolia, Rock county, was so completely verified by District Attorney J. L. Fisher and Constable John Comstock on their tour of investigation Wednesday afternoon that the district attorney recommended that the case be dismissed. The recommendation was made over the telephone and all proceedings against Mr. Lewis were dropped before nightfall. His conduct in court was straightforward and Judge Elford was so strongly persuaded of his innocence that he had previously allowed him to be released on bonds signed by one surety. It was a queer situation and Mr. Lewis, recognizing that fact, was a great deal more patient and obliging than most men would have been under the circumstances. If "Big Boy" was on the Yahn meat counter, it has been conclusively shown that the gambler did not come from the Lewis farm. In all likelihood Mrs. Schultz was mistaken in her identifications.

PRETTY CEREMONY AT HILLER HOME

Ira G. Hiller of This City Wedded to Miss Lily Grace Stone of Milwaukee Last Evening.

At eight o'clock last evening at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Hiller, 1413 Linden avenue, Miss Lily Grace Stone of Milwaukee and Ira G. Hiller of this city, were united in marriage by Dr. David A. Heaton. The couple were attended by Miss Iva Hiller, a sister of the groom, and William Ammon of Oshkosh. The bride wore a gown of cream cashmere and carried white carnations and anthurus. The night of honor was attired in a dress of the same material. The ceremony was performed under a large white wedding bell. The house was tastefully decorated, cream color and green prevailing in the adornment of the parlor and white and green in the dining room. After the congratulations a tempting wedding supper was served, Mr. and Mrs. Hiller received many beautiful presents. They will reside in this city, the groom being employed here by the Monitor Automobile company.

His Parting Shot.
A local minister had had a serious time in fighting the saloon element in his town and had not been backed up in his efforts by the members of his own church. This with other troubles had led to his resignation, and in announcing his departure at his farewell sermon he said: "I am going to do something the devil has never done. I am going to leave C—."

GENERAL GRANT WANTS BIG ARMY

GRANT FAVORS SYSTEM OF CONSCRIPTION TO RAISE MILITARY EFFICIENCY.

SEES BENEFIT TO NATION

General Declares Trained Reserve Force of 1,000,000 Men Is Needed—Cites Germany as Proof—Would Curb Mob Spirit.

New York, Nov. 25.—In order to bring this country up to the military standard of the European powers Maj. Gen. Frederick D. Grant, commander of the department of the east, is in favor of inaugurating a system of conscription in the United States.

He thinks the plan would not increase the army expense more than 50 per cent, as there are sufficient barracks and equipment now on hand to accommodate the new forces, and he believes the respect engendered for law would put an end to mob outrages and lessen crime in America.

"By increasing our army to 250,000," General Grant said, "we could in a few years have among the people engaged in peaceful and gainful occupations 1,000,000 men trained to the military service. The present authorized strength of our army is 100,000, but we have actually in the service only about 85,000 men, because congress has refused to make the appropriations needed."

Would Recruit by Districts. "Should we be suddenly forced into war congress would authorize the enlistment of as many men as required, but, as we would have virtually no schooled soldiers to draw upon, and in such an event the result inevitably would be to prolong the war until its cost in blood and treasure would far exceed what it would have been had we been prepared."

In the execution of his scheme, General Grant would divide the country into military districts and require each district to provide the enlarged army every year with a quota of recruits to be determined by the military authorities, based upon population.

"As I estimate it, such an increase in the size of the army would not increase its cost 50 per cent. In round figures the present cost of the army is $123,000,000. The addition of 150,000 men probably would not run the cost up to more than $230,000,000," he said.

Removing Clinders from Eye.

A simple remedy for removing clinders from the eye is to dip a small and perfectly clean camel's hair brush in water and pass it over the ball of the eye. This operation requires little skill and generally removes all particles of dust instantly without danger of inflammation. Of course, this remedy is not suggested for the truin, where no one could get the brush.

The Charming Bears.

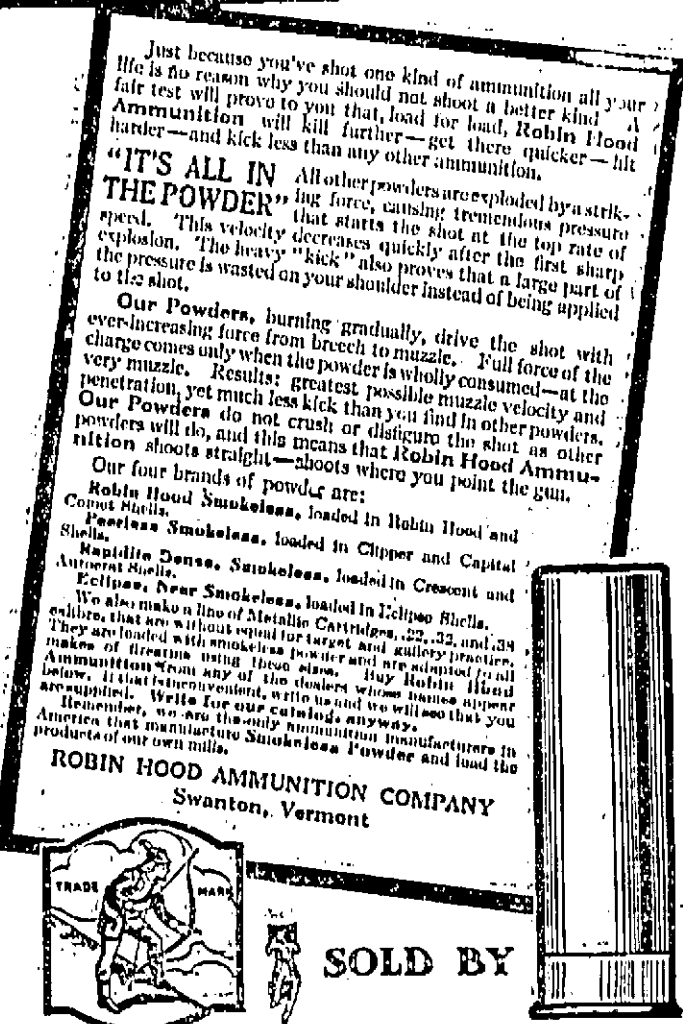

American woman, as a rule, skate very gracefully; their slender figures lend themselves to the art, and they have, of course, plenty of opportunity for practice. English girls also skate well, but I think, on the whole, that no one looks prettier on artificial ice than the Parisienne.—London Madame.

Too Many Ureteral Wants.

We are ruined not by what we really want, but by what we think we do; therefore, never go abroad in search of your wants; if they be real wants, they will come home in search of you; for he that buys what he does not want will soon want what he cannot buy.—C. Cuthbert Hall.

Rise Above Circumstances. The most thankful, joyful, and glad-hearted people we come across are often those who have least in this world to make them happy.

The Name of It. "This," murmured the petted Anora cat, as her saucer, filled with the richest extract of the dairy was put before her, "is tasting the cream of life in the lap of luxury!"

Tact and Kindness. Tact is not insincerity. Tact is the self control that leads the gentle-minded to have respect for time, place and the feelings of others. Tactful persons are usually the kindest.

MARION BELL DIED IN ROCHELLE, ILL.

Janesville Man Succumbed Yesterday to Injuries Received When Leg Was Cut Off and Foot Crushed.

Marion P. Bell, until last summer a resident of this city, died yesterday afternoon at four o'clock in Rochelle, Ill., of injuries received Wednesday evening, when he was found lying alongside the Northwestern tracks with one leg cut off above the knee and the other foot crushed. It is thought that Bell had been walking along the tracks between two trains and stumbled over a rail laid between the tracks near a car. He sustained no other injuries, but is thought to have lain an hour and a half before he was found. His meaning attracted the attention of a woman standing on the platform but at the time she gave no heed to it. Later she called her husband's attention to where Bell lay. Bell was conscious at the time and asked to be taken to his boarding house, but shortly afterward he lapsed into unconsciousness, remaining unconscious until his death. His other leg was amputated in an effort to save his life. The remains were brought to this city last evening.

Bell, who was thirty years of age and had made his home in this city since 1904 when he came here with his brother. Last summer he went to Sterling, Ill., and later to Rochelle, where he was working in the cannery factory of the P. Hohensol, Jr., company. Besides his brother, Harry Bell, who lives in this city, the deceased is survived by a father, J. J. Bell of Kansas City and a sister, Mrs. Florence Edmunds of Griswold, Ill.

Many-Sided Kicks of the Camel.

A camel's hind legs will reach anywhere—over his head, round his chest and onto his hump. Even when lying down an evil-disposed animal will shoot out his legs and bring you to a sitting posture if he wants to. Compared with a camel, a mule is really a most considerate kicker, so beware when the camel looks as if he is going to kick.

Mike Vukelic Was Given Just One Hour To Start Back To His Home In West Allis.

Country contributors of quarters and dimes to a fund which gray-bearded and emotional Mike Vukelic was raising for his unhappy family in Virginia followed him to town last evening and when they saw him apportioning some of the money in nickeladons and other places of amusement, called the attention of the police. Vukelic claims to have been incapacitated for work in a mine accident but is the picture of robust health. He tried hard to squeeze out a tear or two while telling his story in the german tongue through an interpreter but did not meet with much success. When told that he would be sent to jail for five days he made gestures indicating that he "would do the German" with a jack-knife at his earliest convenience. Judge Field finally gave him one hour to get out of town and he took the noon train for West Allis.

An opportunity of a lifetime to visit the wonderful Sunny South Land at an ideal time of year

READ THIS LETTER:

Janesville, Wis., Nov. 25, 1910.

Mr. Ward D. Williams,
Northern Manager Cross "S" Ranch Irrigated Farms,
Janesville, Wis.

Dear Mr. Williams: It affords me a great deal of pleasure to express to you my appreciation and opinion of Cross "S" Ranch irrigated farms, obtained from a personal visit and investigation of the property during my trip to Texas the past ten days.

I am free to confess that prior to this trip I was somewhat skeptical in regard to representations made by your people.

The best proof of what I think of these farms, is that I have become personally interested and have invested in Cross "S" Ranch farms myself.

I find that all you have represented to be entirely accurate and true, in fact you could have said a great deal more and then not told all of the wonderful possibilities these farms offer to the homeseeker and investor.

My talks with disinterested parties in no wise connected with the Ranch lead me to believe that in a very short period these farms will double and triple in value.

I would strongly advise all those desiring a home and an absolute safe and income producing investment to take advantage of your proposition before it is too late.

Very truly yours,

O. D. BRACE.

CROSS "S" FARMS WILL PRODUCE

PRETTY HOME WEDDING ON THANKSGIVING DAY

Miss Inga Ellingson of Edgerton became the Bride of John Grassman of Nepton, Wis.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Edgerton, Nov. 25.—A pretty home wedding took place here on Thanksgiving day at the residence of ex-mayor and Mrs. T. A. Ellingson when their niece Miss Inga Ellingson, was wedded to Mr. John Grassman of Nepton, Richland County, Wis.

The ceremony took place at 12 o'clock noon, and was private, only the relatives of the contracting parties being present. Rev. J. Linnebo, pastor of the Norwegian Lutheran church, performed the ceremony and Miss Margaret Ellingson played the wedding march. After the ceremony and congratulations, a bounteous wedding dinner was served. The bride is a charming young lady and since the death of her parents has made her home with Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Ellingson for nearly two years. The groom is a prosperous young farmer, owning and conducting a farm in Richland County. The happy couple left on the 3:18 afternoon train for their farm home in the vicinity of Nepton, which place will be their future home.

Your Good Grocer Now Has Two Kinds of Karo Syrup

The new Karo (Extra Quality) which is clear as strained honey, very delicate in flavor, and Golden Brown Karo, the kind we have always made.

Karo is the most popular syrup in this country. Sixty million cans were sold last year.

It is widely used as a spread for bread and on griddle cakes and waffles. It is an ideal syrup for candy-making.

The great popularity of Karo is due to the fact that it tastes good and people who cannot digest other syrups may eat Karo freely.

It is good for young and old, especially for growing children—boys and girls who are going to school.

RIOTING SUFFRAGETTES ARE SENTENCED TO JAIL

Women Prefer Prison to Paying Fines When Found Guilty of Assault.

London, Nov. 25.—While 800 suffragettes jeered and hooped without the building and battled with the police, in an attempt to get in and release their comrades, 15 of the more militant members of the organization seeking votes for women were fined in the Bow street police court having been declared guilty of assault and malicious destruction of property.

The sentences varied from fines of $10 to $25 and imprisonment of from two weeks to a month. Most of the prisoners chose to go to jail.

One, Mrs. Haverford was one of those found guilty of assaulting police officers.

The fear of the government against the argument of the women in prison was shown when the prosecution, acting under orders apparently from the home office, insisted that no woman should be found guilty who was not shown actually to have taken part in the violence. In spite of this plea on the part of the government's prosecutor, Magistrate Derwent insisted on imposing fines, declaring that mercy merely encouraged the women to fresh riots.

The home office has not forgotten the last batch of suffragettes sent to jail and the scandal that was caused. The women refused to eat, and the prison officials used stomach pumps and other mechanical means to force food into them to keep them alive. Several women nearly died. All had to be pardoned by the home secretary before their terms expired.

RAIL BOARD TO HEAR CLAIM.

Business Association Members Called In Freight Rate Inquiry.

Washington, Nov. 25.—The claim of the Railway Business association that its members would be put out of business unless the railroads were permitted to increase freight rates will be investigated by the Interstate Commerce commission.

Subpoenas were issued for George A. Post of New York, the president of the association, and A. H. Mulliken of Chicago, the vice-president, to appear at the pending hearings of the commission on the question of the suspended proposed freight advances in the of fiscal classification territory. President Post also was advised that the commission would be glad to hear any representatives of his organization.

Pardon.

The highest of characters is his who is as ready to pardon the moral errors of mankind as if he were every day guilty of the same himself, and at the same time as cautious of committing a fault as if he never forgave one.—Pliny the Younger.

Early Coins.

Certain passages in the "Iliad" of Homer would lead to the inference that coins of brass were struck as early as 1184 B. C. Tradition affirms that the Chinese had bronze coins as early as 1120 B. C. But Herodotus, "the father of history," ascribes the "invention" of coins to the Lydians, about nine centuries B. C., and there is no satisfactory evidence that coins were known prior to that date.

A Word to the Out of town Buyer

MAIL ORDERS promptly and carefully filled. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded. We can supply most any dry goods want. We shop outside for goods in other lines as a special accommodation.

We realize that owing to the excellent train service in and out of Janesville that most people prefer to buy goods in person. The mail order end of our business, however, is constantly growing in importance owing to our unusual preparedness in filling orders. We aim, whenever possible, to send orders out by the first mail, which means many times getting the goods the same day ordered.

People who have had experience, of course, know how long it takes to get orders from large cities. In most instances the city stores are in no better position to fill orders than we are. Try The Big Store next time.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

Such a pathetic transformation! A little girl, a dear, pretty, girlish little girl transformed into a woman in three months.

Was it some great trouble, some burden too heavy for young shoulders to bear that wrought this sad transformation? Oh, no, not at all. Just a young girl's foolishness plus a fond mother's weakness, plus a lot of black clothes that would have looked quite suitable on a grandmother and some skirts let down and some hair put up where neither belonged.

When I called on her mother last summer Dorothy was sixteen, wore her hair in a pigtail, had on a little plaid gingham dress and looked like a dear, adorable little school girl.

Yesterday, three months later, when I again called on her mother, a young woman, apparently about twenty-two or three, with her hair done high on her head and her skirts within three inches of the floor came into the room. She wore a black suit, a white not waist, a black and white hat and black gloves.

It was really a moment before I realized that this person actually was Dorothy. Had I not known that there had been no death in the family I should have taken her costume for half mourning.

Every day I see Dorothy of greater or less degree on the street and mourn then as I did this one.

I have seldom known a girl of sixteen who didn't want to put up her hair and do all the rest of the grown-up things that go with that. I've even less frequently known a girl of twenty-six who wouldn't have her own way in this matter, who didn't say, "Oh, if I only hadn't."

Dear little girls from fourteen to eighteen, there are so many, many years to wear black but so many many years when you'll have to have your hair up and your skirts down, and so very few when you can wear all the gay colors you like and can have pigtailed and cunning little skirts midway 'tween your knees and your ankles.

Dear little girls, we grown-ups envy you so. Do you want to vainly throw away that which we regard as so precious?

And if neither of those arguments touches you, here is one that I'm sure will.

IT'S STYLISH TO BE YOUNG AS YOU CAN, AND TERRIBLY "TACKY" TO ASSUME OLDNESS.

All the girls who live up on Desirable street where the lovely houses you admire are, and who go to private schools, wear their hair right down their backs in pigtailed or even loose until they are eighteen or nineteen, and keep their skirts as short as decency allows, and try to look as young as they can as long as they can.

Do you want to be ranked in their class?

Or do you want to be placed with the kind of girl who doesn't go to high school because she hasn't brains enough and stays at home to concentrate what brains she has on trying to look ten years older than she actually is?

Which?

THE GENIUS OF LABOR.

(By MARY RUSSELL.)

"No," said a woman in answer to a question from a companion, "she is not a genius. She is just a hard worker."

I wonder if that is not a kind of genius? To be able to work in the face of failure and discouragement is surely evidence of a power which is lacking in many a man and woman of great gifts.

I have sometimes thought that to be gifted with the power to do everything easily is rather a curse than a blessing.

Like money that is inherited, it is not valued by the lucky owner and is frittered away on useless endeavor.

The man or woman who earns money by hard work—whether it be of brain or brawn—is more likely to be a little thoughtful about expenditures. He or she learns the value of a penny in a hard school, and it has a cumulative power, to his or her mind, that the larger sum has to the person born with the proverbial gold spoon.

Some one has said that genius is the capacity for taking infinite pains. It is more than that—it is the ability to do over and over a bit of work which seems to be a failure.

The genius draws a picture. It is a failure. He casts it aside and draws something else. The genius of infinite pains makes the same attempt, and if failure is his portion draws it again and yet again until it is good.

Now the result of that effort may lack the divine touch which would have rewarded the God-given genius if there had been some application, but it is worthy and better work will follow.

The muscians and singers who could be truly great and who fritter away the time in the easy lines of mediocrity are lost. Then there is the genius for business and management—who is able to plan along in the lines of comparative success, but who never reaches the highest within him. To him, not the genius for hard work that is part of great success.

This idea of the uselessness of being a genius unless at the same time he is cultivated a capacity for hard work should be impressed upon children. It is when the human creature is in the plastic state that it is possible to have greatest impressions upon the brain. Ideas of work should be instilled, do not be afraid of making a child do too much if you are careful to see that he eats and sleeps and lives according to correct hygienic laws.

If your son or daughter, or perhaps your pupil, shows a certain ability in some particular line try to induce that child to study seriously to make some progress in that line. Do not add a dozen other lines for work. Specialize upon the one for which there is the capacity.

It may be art or music, it may be business or teaching, it is perhaps for carpentering or for sewing. Where the interest is there, will be the best results—if a child learns to take infinite pains.

If the child has no particular genius for any one thing, but still has a preference for one study or one kind of work, specialize with him. Help him to shine in that one chosen thought.

You may not let down an axiom that a child must excel in something if he would be happy in school. You may even go farther and say that a man or woman must do some one thing well if he or she is to be happy. It is just a different name for a fact. If the fact be useful so much the better.

To work hard there must be enthusiasm, and there is no enthusiasm among children for work which cannot be done well. Aid your child by a little basis of enthusiasm, and enthusiasm is a long step towards the genius of "taking pains." The divine spark may go out for lack of sufficient breeze to keep it alight, but the constant work of the person with a genius for it will brighten into a glow the dulllest fire.

Suit Cases Polish.

Some persons are surprised when they go to pack their suit cases for a journey to find them shabby or spotted, the leather dry and cracked or covered with greenish mold. They have been stored away either too near furnaces and steam pipes or in damp cellars.

All leather goods, chair seats, book covers, traveling bags, etc., must have consideration if they are to retain a fresh, attractive appearance. Shoes are preserved by the dressing on the leather. Book covers of leather or calf which are beginning to grow dry and brittle should be rubbed with a very small quantity of vasoline. If merely shabby and spotted they should be rubbed with well beaten white of egg, as should chair seats and all other leather articles, with the exception of sole leather suit cases, which are best cleaned by using ordinary russet shoe polish.

New Employment For Women.

A new employment for women which is most profitable is that of entertaining invalids. A young woman student in one of the larger cities found that there was an opening for some one who could play games with persons recovering from illness, and the demand was so great that all her spare time was occupied in this manner. Chess and checkers were much in demand with women as well as men. Fact must be used to know when to win a game and when not to, for the game must have all the appearance of a close contest.

Warts Have Worth.

Timber warts or burls, caused by the distortion of the grain out of its natural position, rank high in commercial value because of their rarity and beauty of figure. These freaks of nature have brought as high as ten cents a pound, and a picture is shown of one that was valued at $200. Popular Mechanics.

CHRISTMAS SUGGESTIONS

By ROSE TERRELL.

Pillows are an old story, but it would be difficult to find the girl or boy who does not want a new one, if the donor has the good sense not to place it in the hands of a child.

Finest praise and honest criticism, with the opportunity to work, is the judicious help. Do not allow yourself to be obsessed with the old idea that what a child does for is necessarily of most value. It is often what he is shown how to do for that counts.

PUTS AN END TO INDIGESTION AND A SOUR, GASSY, UPSET STOMACH

Take a little Diapasein now and your stomach will feel fine five minutes later.

As there is often some one in your family who suffers an attack of indigestion or some form of stomach trouble, why don't you keep some Diapasein in the house handy?

This harmless blessing will digest anything you can eat without the slightest discomfort, and overcome a sour, gassy stomach five minutes after.

Tell your pharmacist to let you read the formula, plainly printed on these 50-cent boxes of Diapasein, then you will readily see why it makes indigestion, Sour Stomach, Heartburn and other distress, so in five minutes, and relieves at once such ularies as Belching of Gas, Eructations of sour, undigested food, Nausea, Headaches, Dizziness, Constipation and other stomach disorders.

Some folks have tried so long to find relief from indigestion and dyspepsia or an out-of-order stomach with the common, everyday cures advertised that they have almost given up their minds that they have something else wrong, or believe there is a case of Nervousness, Gastritis, Catarrh of the Stomach or Cancer.

This, no doubt, is a serious mistake. Your real trouble is, what you eat does not digest; instead, it ferments and sours, turns to acid, gas and stomach trouble, which putrefies in the digestive tract and intestines, and besides, poisons the breath with nauseous odors.

A hearty appetite, with thorough digestion and without the slightest discomfort or misery of the stomach, is waiting for you as soon as you decide to try Diapasein.

The KITCHEN CABINET

WE BELIEVE: That health is the duty and business of the individual; illness of the physician.

Buttermilk as Food.

Buttermilk is prized as a food and a medicine. As all the properties of skim milk are still in the milk, the casein and mineral matter, which are the valuable part of the milk are still there. The lactic acid in the buttermilk attacks and dissolves the earthy deposits in the veins and arteries, so that there is no clogging. It is the calcareous deposits in the veins and arteries which cause decay of the powers, hardening of the arteries and stiffening of the joints. Buttermilk, if freely drunk, postpones the infirmities of age ten and twenty years. It is a stimulation to the liver, skin and kidneys. It tones the stomach and is changed into good rich red blood.

When feeding a child of rheumatism drink buttermilk freely. Buttermilk should be freshly churned to be wholesome.

Our grandmothers used to make bread with buttermilk which was wholesome and of fine flavor. For a quick bread, the following is a good recipe:

Buttermilk Bread.—Take two cups of flour, half a teaspoonful of salt, a teaspoonful of cream of tartar and half a teaspoonful of soda. Sift well and add a cupful of buttermilk. Make into a loaf, score it across and bake three-quarters of an hour in a moderate oven.

Buttermilk soup is another wholesome dish, which is made as any cream soup, using a tablespoonful of flour and butter to bind it.

Malted Buttermilk.—Take a quart of buttermilk, one and a half tablespoonfuls of flour, one beaten egg, three tablespoonfuls of sugar, a little grated nutmeg and two slices of bread. Moisten the flour with a little buttermilk, beat the remainder; but do not boil; add the sugar and egg to the buttermilk, and after cooking the flour until thick, add to the mixture. Season and pour over the bread crumbs.

Corn Muffins.—Put two cupfuls of cornmeal into a bowl add a cup of flour, half a cup of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, a beaten egg. Add a teaspoonful of soda to two cups of buttermilk and half a teaspoonful of salt. Beat well and bake in buttered muffin pans.

Mrs. Jones Knew Why. Mr. Smith was conversing with Mr. Jones.

"Say," said Smith, "do you know why it is you are like a monkey?"

"No," said Jones in surprise. "Why, because your better half is a stumpy-headed monkey?"

Jones thought over the matter all the way home, and on arriving he looked at Mrs. Jones with the expression of a man who is about to do himself proud, and said:

"Say, do you know why I am like a monkey?"

"There was a long silence from Mrs. Jones, and then she smiled pityingly, and said:

"Why, I suppose it is because you were born that way."

"FRIENDLY GERM" TABLETS

Milk, as is well known, is a medium for the development of germs, including that of tuberculosis. As the ferment or the fox can prevent rabbit plagues, such as have proved so unfortunate in Australia, if either can be cultivated in the same territory, so a "friendly germ" can be planted in milk immediately and given the start so that the Metchnikoff has shown that disease-producing germs are routed in the large intestine by the germ specially cultivated or in ordinary buttermilk. Several special cultures are now to be had in tablet form by which a desirable germ can be cultivated in milk and others largely excluded, at the same time making the milk more digestible by dissolving the coarse curd which makes cow's milk difficult of digestion.

HALL A BOWER OF BEAUTY FOR THE TRAINMEN'S BALL

Decorations of Assembly Hall Most Beautiful Ever Used—Large Crowd Was Present.

Assembly hall was transformed into a bower of beauty on the occasion of the twenty-fifth annual ball given on Thanksgiving Eve by Rock River Lodge No. 216 of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. The decorations were quite the most beautiful ever used. From the center of the ceiling a large inverted bowl of orange and green was hung and radiating from it on all sides were festoons in the same colors in imitation of autumn leaves. An arched light in the center, surrounded by incandescents and streamers of incandescents, all partially hidden by the decorations, lighted the hall. An especial feature was the use of a calcium light with varicolored effects as a setting to some of the dance numbers. The decorations were arranged by Florist Ed. Amorphi. Knott & Hatch's orchestra furnished the music for the dance program which consisted mainly of two-steps and waltzes with an occasional old-fashioned dance. About three hundred couples, including a number of guests from out of town attended the affair. The ball lasted until three o'clock Thanksgiving morning.

UNSOLD PORTIONS OF CROPS BEING BOUGHT

Not Many Sales of Much Importance Are Being Registered Among Tobacco Dealers.

According to the Edgerton Tobacco Reporter, while the buying movement in the new crop is not being prosecuted with much vigor, buyers are riding the growing districts all the time and contracts made that are quietly lifting unsold portions. Prices continue to vary according to quality, and something of a frequently obtained for the grasshoppered leaf. Sales coming to notice showing the range of prices are:

M. E. Nelson, 7a at 10c.
Frank Irace, 6a at 10c.
Elmer Thronson, 7a at 10 1/2c.
W. D. Hemphill, 8a at 9 1/2c.
Antonio Olson East, 6a at 10 1/2c.
H. Olson, 7a at 8c.
Dudd Hill, 5a at 8 1/2c.
Wilmor Hager, 8a at 9c.
G. E. Gunderson, 15a at 8 1/2c.
Mrs. Hockstad, 7a at 8c.
Martin Jensen, 5a at 8c.
John Willie, 2a at 8c.
C. Hammerquist, 2a at 8c.

Old leaf continues to move in quite liberal quantities, three or four lots of Houghton, packers having been sold, including a 6000 pack of '08 by O. C. Lee, 6000 of '09 by Holton & Osgren and about 5000 of '09 by Halverson & Hiltner. The latter to Hiltner and others for the account of the American Cigar Co. Numerous other small lots including several years' growth have been marketed.

The work of stemming which has been carried on quite extensively in the state for several months is drawing to a close. T. H. Carlo having finished this week at his Stoughton warehouse.

Growers would welcome ending weather now and could devote some attention to stripping when it comes.

The shipments out of storage reach 500 cases from this market to all points for the week.

It has been some years—not since 1895 at least—when the country districts were as bare of old leaf as at the present time. For the past six months a diligent hunt has been kept up for the old stock remaining in growers' hands and nearly everything that could be lifted within reasonable figures has been taken over until but few lots can now be located. These are either held beyond the reach of would-be buyers or are not desirable, so after the new crop has been bought up, as the indications now point it will be, there will be little for local packers and small dealers to trade in until another crop is raised. Under ordinary conditions there is always about 10 per cent of every crop held back in country hands after the crop is thought to be quite well bought up. There is a certain per cent of growers who are traveling holders and rarely sell until their tobacco is well sorted and carried through the event and oftentimes two or three crops are allowed to pile up on the farm before being disposed of. There are also quite a few growers who put up small packings each year, but even both classes are now sold out much closer than usual. Manufacturers who heretofore have expected to draw from these sources will find now they must look elsewhere for their supplies.

MORE THAN EVER Increased Capacity for Mental Labor Since Leaving off Coffee.

Many former coffee drinkers who have mental work to perform, day after day, have found a better capacity and greater endurance by using Postum instead of ordinary coffee. An Illinois woman writes:

"I had drunk coffee for about twenty years and finally had what the doctors called 'coffee heart.' I was nervous and extremely dependent; had but little mental or physical strength left, had kidney trouble and constipation."

"The first noticeable benefit derived from the change from coffee to Postum was the natural action of the kidneys and bowels. In two weeks my heart action was greatly improved and my nerves steady."

"Then I became less dependent, and the desire to be active again showed proof of renewed physical and mental strength."

"I am steadily gaining in physical strength and brain power. I formerly did mental work and had to give it up on account of coffee, but since using Postum I am doing hard mental labor with less fatigue than ever before."

WERE MARRIED ON THANKSGIVING DAY

Miss Hazel Marie Balsey Bride of Monte G. Sprout of Rock—Two Couples Wedded Wednesday.

Miss Hazel Marie Balsey of this city and Monte G. Sprout of the town of Rock were united in marriage on Thanksgiving Day at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore W. Balsey, 314 North Franklin Street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. T. D. Williams, Miss Flossie Allen and Willard Allen attending the young couple. About thirty guests, relatives and friends, witnessed the wedding and partook of a sumptuous wedding dinner, which was served immediately after the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Sprout will reside in their new home at 109 Ponce Court.

Back-Burdick.
On Wednesday evening at seven o'clock occurred the marriage of Miss Evelyn Arnold Beck to Rm S. Burdick. The nuptial knot was tied by the Rev. T. D. Williams at the Methodist church parsonage and was witnessed only by members of the pastor's family. Mr. and Mrs. Burdick will make their home at 337 North Jackson Street. The bride, for some years, has been telephone operator in the office of the Rock County Telephone Company. The groom is employed as a conductor on the Janesville street car line.

Barlow-Nelson.
Miss Cora Barlow of Edgerton and Hans Nelson of Stoughton, were wedded by Rev. Williams at noon Wednesday at the M. E. church parsonage. They will reside in Stoughton.

Better Than Medicine.
If your food don't "agree" with you, no need to consult the doctor. Take a 20 minutes' whack at the wood pile twice a day, pitch hay or hang on the plow handles, and your digestion will come around.

APPROPRIATIONS MADE BY GREEN COUNTY BOARD

$155,000 To Be Raised by Green County Which is $20,000 Above Last Year's Appropriations.

(Special to the Gazette.)
Monroe, Wis., Nov. 25.—Appropriations amounting to $155,000 were made by the county board of supervisors previous to adjournment for the Thanksgiving recess. The appropriation is $20,000 higher than last year, due to highway and county building appropriations. The board decided further to distribute the cost of the new men's building at the county poor farm over a period of six instead of three years.

Hurr Sprague, John Dick and A. B. Comstock were appointed as a committee to establish the street boundaries for the extension of the court house park, and they will report at the next session of the county board.

Local News.
The congregations of the English Lutheran and Union churches "pounded" their pastors and families at their homes, leaving Thanksgiving turkey and innumerable staple groceries for the minister's families. In both instances the occasions were happy surprises and the contributions were greatly appreciated.

Miss Phoebe Twining, of this city, junior in the Wisconsin university, has been selected to take the part of Harriet Phelps in the play, "The Road to Yesterday," which will be staged by the Edwin Booth and Red Dondou dramatic clubs of the university. The play will be given in Madison in the Fuller opera house on December 10.

Olo Osmundson, owner of the Osmundson bowling alleys and pool hall, is seriously ill in the Lehigh hospital with typhoid fever.

Prof. E. J. Shives, of Menominee, and Miss Ellen Wagner, of Orangeville, were guests of W. A. Nance and family over Thanksgiving.

Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Wood and daughter, Mrs. Pearl Pengra, left today for Long Beach, Cal., where they will spend the winter.

SEVERELY INJURED BY VICIOUS BULL

George Schaffer Of Hanover Narrowly Escaped With His Life When Attacked By Angry Animal.

George Schaffer of Hanover, narrowly escaped death Wednesday, when he was attacked by an angry bull. Mr. Schaffer had led the animal out of the barn to the farm in the hay when suddenly he became angry and turned on Schaffer. For more than an hour he tussled with the creature and it was with difficulty that he made his escape. His leg was broken in two places below the knee and various other injuries of a serious nature were received. It was only by almost superhuman efforts that Schaffer managed to crawl to a fence and escape from the enraged animal. Doctors S. W. Lacey of Portville and Kettler of Orfordville were called to attend the injured man and he was made as comfortable as possible.

WAS INJURED WHEN THROWN FROM BUGGY

Mr. Walters Of Portville, Suffered Dislocation Of Collar Bone Wednesday Afternoon.

Mr. Walters, who lives with his son-in-law, Mr. W. Lee, on the Kellogg farm east of Portville, was badly injured when thrown from a buggy last Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Walters was getting into the buggy when the horse started throwing him to the ground with great force and dislocating his collar bone. Dr. S. W. Lacey of Portville was called and reduced the dislocation and if internal injuries have not been sustained Mr. Walters will soon recover.

Lines of Least Resistance

Fallacious Philosophy Upon Which Most Parents Act in Training Children.

Many youths are trained along the lines of least resistance. Their careers are watched so that they may not run against obstacles and disappointments. They get all the money, clothes, idling, pleasures they want, without making a single effort to possess them. "We want John to have a good time now, for after awhile he may not have it," is the philosophy upon which many parents act.

It is great folly. The boy who is put on the lines of least resistance and meets with few if any adventures, gathers little strength of mind or character. There is no gliding forward. There is no step in advance that does not involve an effort. The boy whose path is made smooth and easy for him is like the pupil in school who studies arithmetic with a key. He got his lessons, but he died, at last, in an infirmary.

Just mark it down, oh rich and loving parent, that your boy, raised in ease and comfort and with every advantage ready at hand, provided by your bounty, will not amount to a hot of beans out in the world, where heroism is in demand and true worth is the test of manhood.

It is unfortunate for any boy not to have a struggle during the formative period of life, and a boy with a resolution to make his way is far better off than a boy with money to buy it. Stick a pin right there.

SUNNY MONDAY

Soap is cheaper than clothes and it pays, therefore, to get the best soap, even for laundry purposes. The best laundry soap made is a white soap called "Sunny Monday," which contains no rosin and is kind to clothes. One bar of Sunny Monday will go as far as two bars of ordinary yellow laundry soap which contains rosin; its use, therefore, means economy.

Lord Loveland Discovers America

By C. N. AND A. M. WILLIAMSON

Copyright, 1910, by Doubleday, Page & Company. Copyright, 1908, by the McClure Company

"Oh, very well, thank you," said Loveland stiffly, with that upward inflection of the voice which can make a "thank you" as irritating as a mosquito bite.

He was ready now to use Major Cadwallader Hunter for catpawing in all his branches, but did not intend to be overcivil in return.

And the would-be leader was delighted to become Lord Loveland's catpaw, because he hoped that his way of handling the chestnuts would do him honor. He believed that if through Lord Loveland he did not become king of all the lions in New York that season he might at least be king's jester.

Major Cadwallader Hunter prided himself on being able to add out everything about everything, even when starting from the point of complete ignorance and handicapped by a time limit. Indeed, he had a nice detective instinct, and putting it to use was one of the games he played best. But he found himself confronted with difficulties in the case of Mrs. Loveland and her niece.

It was simple to find out the girl's name, and that Mrs. Loveland, the aunt, was a delicate little person, at that time of life when sensible women cling no longer to the ragged edge of youth as a bit cling to a shutter. But as to wealth and as to ancestors (Cadwallader Hunter was as devout a worshipper of "ancestors as any Chinaman), the matter was more difficult. However, he was eventually fortunate enough to stumble upon an acquaintance, a Mrs. Milton, who had met Mrs. Loveland and her niece while traveling in England. Mrs. Milton was a charming woman, but she had some weaknesses. In a sojourn of six weeks she had become so much more English than the English that she had taken to calling her daughter "Penny" "Penny." She pitied Mrs. Loveland and Mrs. Loveland's niece because they were so "so un-American, American, don't you know?" They lived in a town in the southwest, knew no New York people, poor things, and were altogether provincial. They had been abroad for the first time, had enjoyed themselves with the most courted enthusiasm everywhere and were so much interested in history and dull subjects of that sort that Penny's mother fancied they were perhaps schoolteachers on their holidays.

Major Cadwallader Hunter was glad to hear those damning details, because it was evident that the Englishman was taken with Mrs. Loveland's niece. The self-appointed bear leader wanted his bear for more important girls.

It was not till nearly dinner time that he was able to make his report to Loveland. Meanwhile, during his leader's absence, the bear had found out some things for himself and had forgotten Major Cadwallader Hunter. Val had felt the need of another constitutional and, seeing his niece's niece struggling with a wind blown rug, had tucked it round her feet. A next door chair stood empty for the moment. He begged meekly to sit down and talk for a little while. He had talked for more than a "little while" and then had been forced to go because the owner of the next door chair came back and hovered suggestively.

Loveland had only just got up and was taking his leave when Major Cadwallader Hunter arrived from the music room, where he had been gleaming facts. "She is a Miss Dearmer," he announced.

"Oh, I know that already," Val returned ungratefully. "She told me herself."

"Lesley Dearmer?"

"I hadn't got as far as the Lesley yet," Val laughed lightly, for he had had a delightful conversation with Miss Dearmer. And while Loveland sat beside her she had been bright thought after bright thought, carelessly as a cavalier in a bank shovels out gold for other people's purses. He had never met a girl like Miss Dearmer. No wonder she could write stories!

"Of course you must do exactly as you please," said Cadwallader Hunter, "but from what I've learned I fancy you can pass your valuable time better on this trip than in the society of Miss Dearmer."

"What do you mean?" Val flashed out at him.

"Oh, only that it's just as I thought. She and her aunt are ordinary, provincial little people, with no money or connections. They live in the southwest, near a city called Louisville. Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge are at your table, and I've just been arranging to sit there, too, so I can introduce you this evening at dinner. You'll be next Miss Coolidge, and opposite you'll have a very nice girl, a Miss Penny Milton, who admires Englishmen. Her mother is a youngish woman with a temper. She doesn't get on well with her husband, but he is a very rich man who must give a dot of at least $500,000 to his daughter. These people are friends of mine and will be very pleased to know you."

It was the next morning. Loveland had joined Mrs. Dearmer as she walked, and she had not been repellent in her manner. Yet somehow her friendliness did not encourage him to increasing conceit. He had vaguely felt that she read him as if he were a cipher of which she had found the key.

"I know who you are now," she said. "Who told you anything about me?"

"Miss Milton."

"Oh, you know her daughter of the white faced woman, pretty, bluish little thing who sits at my table?"

"Yes. We were traveling in England at the same time and often met at hotels."

"What did Miss Milton say about me?"

"Do you really want to know?"

"Yes, I am not a coward."

"She said she wondered if you were going over to our country to try to marry an American girl."

"By Jove! Well, supposing I do try, what's your opinion? Do you think I stand a good chance of bringing it off?"

"It's rather soon for me to judge."

"You seem to have made up your mind quickly about some of my other qualities."

"It might pay to try to marry an American girl."

"Well," admitted Loveland on an impulse, "no matter how much I might want to, I couldn't marry one if it didn't pay."

"Now you are being frank," replied Miss Lesley. "I like people to be frank."

"So do I," said Loveland, "when that doesn't mean being disagreeable, as it generally does from one's relatives, especially one's maiden aunts."

"England expects that every aunt will do her duty."

"Luckily you're not my aunt, so please don't do to me if it's unpleasant. But couldn't we be frank—and friends? I should like most awfully to have you for my friend. You could be no end valuable to me, you know, about giving me good advice, if you would."

She laughed. "I dare say. But could you be valuable to me?"

CHAPTER V.

GUIDE, PHILOSOPHER AND FRIEND.

LOVELAND wished that he might dare to be dangerous, but the idea of having her for a friend into whose pink shell of an ear he could pour confidences really attracted him, since her value, not being cash value, could be realized by him in no other way. And, of course, if she would promise to be his friend it would be childish to make love to her. He felt very virtuous as he laid down this rule for himself.

"I'll let you study me as much as you like and put me into your next story."

"Is she villain?"

He looked rather blank. His conception for himself was always the part of hero.

"But, after all, it's usually baronets who're villains—in stories and plays," she went on. "A marquis—you are a marquis, aren't you?—may perhaps be a fellow being."

"Please treat me as such, then," said Loveland.

"I will, anyway till further notice. Now you may begin to tell me frank things, and I'll give you frank advice about them as a friend."

"How I wish you were rich!" exclaimed Loveland, thinking aloud, as he did sometimes.

"How do you know I'm not? Oh, of course Major Cadwallader Hunter found out for you. He would! He's the sort of man who takes a woman's eye view of the world and of women and wealth. But never mind if I am not rich."

"I do mind. I shouldn't want you for a friend if you were."

"You wouldn't—oh! Well, now you are being still franker, aren't you?"

"You said you liked people to be frank."

"Yes."

"I haven't offended you, have I?"

"No. I'm just getting used to you. It's quite interesting. What do you want my advice about? Other girls, I suppose."

"It may come to that," Loveland admitted.

"Any one in particular at the moment?"

"Well, supposing I were forced to marry money for the sake of—of—my estates and all that, is there any one on board you'd recommend?"

"You've two very eligible girls at your table."

"Yes. But, hang it all, it's too much of a good thing having them at one's elbow like that, you know. It only it were you instead!"

"On the principle of having the poor always with one. But for that you'd have to change and sit at mine. We're all poor there, I think. It's the ineligible table for both sexes. Would you care to come?"

"I'd care to, but I couldn't afford it," said Val. "I must stop where I am and take the gods as they provide."

"You mean the dining room stew-ard who arranged the seats."

"What else did Miss Milton say about me?"

"That you were very good looking, as we're being frank."

"I hope you agreed with her."

"Oh, yes; I had to. Your looks are so obvious, so much a part of your stock in trade, if you don't mind my saying so. It would be silly to deny that the shop windows are well decorated. It was apropos of your marrying that she spoke. I said a handsome man oughtn't to be driven into the obscurity of marriage by necessity; he ought simply to be supported by the nation, become a sort of public institution and be the pride of his country—be sent, beautifully got up, to walk in parks and dance at balls and make life pleasant for girls."

"Thank you. Anything else?"

"Let me see. She said it seemed as if you'd bought your earrings by the yard and been frightfully extravagant."

"Wish I could pawn them!"

"If you marry as you intend you won't need to."

"I say, I'm afraid you're frightfully sarcastic," said Loveland, who had never had an American girl for a friend before and found that having one kept his hands full. "You think I'm a beast to marry a girl for her money."

"First catch your hare."

"You mean I mayn't get one to take me?"

"One never can tell. There have been slips between cup and lip."

"Although I'm poor, I can give my wife a lot of things a woman likes to have."

"Second best things?"

"Oh, come! You haven't stopped to think what they are?"

"I've stopped to think that love's the best thing—the thing a girl cares most for a man to give her."

"It seems to me that all the girls I know would be pretty well satisfied with the right to walk into a dining room behind a duchess and—"

"Do you? What a lot you've got to learn about girls!"

Fallible Public Opinion.

Projects that succeed are not necessarily right and good. Public opinion is far from being infallible.

SMASH UP LUGGAGE.

English Baggage-men Get Even When Not Tipped.

One Man Is Found Breaking Up Trunks, Banging Every Time He Throws One to Ground, "There Goes Tuppence."

Luggage smashing seems to have developed into a recognized business among porters at country railway stations, says the London Mail.

This at least has been the experience of many. Railway porters, it seems, are deliberately damaging luggage sent in advance, because they get no tips for handling it, and because they desire to deter railway travelers from sending their luggage in this way.

Inquiries which have been made seem very completely to verify the complaints on the subject.

"My wife, my children and I spent our holiday in Devon," one informant states, "and in my innocence I sent our luggage in advance, thinking that I should save money in cab fare and in portage, and that I should have no worry."

"Instead I am $10 out of pocket and there is no redress."

"My luggage, when it left my house, was packed in good trunks and stout bags. When it arrived in Devon it was enclosed in battered boxes and crumpled bags."

"There was one new tin trunk. It was neatly japanned in black, for instance, and it had cost me $4."

"When I retrieved it it was dented, scratched, battered and its enamel was gone. There were the marks of boots on it and it looked old and worn. The Gladstone bags seemed to have suffered at the feet of horses in a cavalry charge, so battered and bruised were they."

Last year I took my luggage with me, and, on the whole, it traveled without much mutilation. So I asked a friend who is an official of a great railway company if he could explain why my unfortunate possessions had received such treatment when they were sent in advance."

"It is the country porters who have done this to your luggage," he said. "They have to handle luggage sent in advance, and they get no tips for doing so."

"Consequently they wage war on it, and the more they can damage it the better they are pleased. We are at our wits' ends to know how to prevent them."

"They slam it down from heights with malice aforethought; they bump it across platforms with wilful intent to damage it, and they spill it from trucks in the confident hope of reducing its value by more than they would have received in tips from the owners had they accompanied it."

Another correspondent gives an eye-witness account of the style of treatment to which advance luggage is subjected.

"I would very much like to warn people," he writes, "not to forward their trunks in advance."

"I have seen two instances of the way it is treated. In one case I saw a porter smothering trunks, bags and boxes in a sort of avalanche down the stairs from a bridge as the easiest and most drastic method of conveying it to the platform of the junction."

"In the second case I saw another porter laboriously raising boxes and trunks in the air, and dropping them one by one on a stone pavement, punctuating his performance with the remark: 'There goes another tuppence.'"

Caboose With a Record.

"The caboose with the 'fastest north' record," said H. H. Spaulding of Pittsburgh, "is now resting in dignified retirement at Shohola, Pa. It is one of the show places of that community."

"When Peary was preparing his expedition of about twelve years ago he obtained from the Erie railroad one of those dumpy little cabooses that manage to shelter in some marvelous manner a crew of five or six men. This was put on board the Windward, his vessel, as a temporary deckhouse. The people of Shohola know more about this expedition than they do about the one on which Peary found the pole. They will tell you that the dismantled car was used as a shelter by Peary and his companions during the winter night which they spent at Etah. So the car evidently holds the record for a journey to the northern latitudes."

A Settler.

Maud—Jack said when he proposed that he could give me only the necessities of life."

Ethel—And what did you say?

Maud—I told him that one of the necessities of my life was a husband who could supply me the luxuries.
